Message from the Leadership Chair

Greetings!

There's so much to do and celebrate in March! International Women's Day is celebrated on March 8th to recognize women's achievements and the fight for gender equality. Come join us on March 6th when the Women's Adventure Film Tour will be presented at Jackson Cinema. The movie brings together incredible stories of courage, adventure, and self-discovery. Last year's films were very inspiring. We'd love to see you there.

On March 2nd, Susy Flory, one of our new members, will be at the Jackson Cinema to present "The Unbreakable Boy," a tender story she wrote about a teenage boy with a rare brittle-bone disease. Suggested donation is $10.

Do you want to make smart financial decisions? Who doesn't? Then plan to attend the free Financial Literacy Workshop on Saturday, March 22nd. The workshop caters to all those who want to better manage their finances. Please spread the word to all community members. They'll be glad they attended.

The Home Tour is back! Mark your calendars for Saturday, May 3rd in Lone. In the meantime, Rita Bohl is looking for donations of creative raffle baskets. The raffle is always one of the most popular parts of the Home Tour, so think about what you can put together to create a fun basket.

Jen Ellis is also looking for members and non-members alike who want to be docents at the four homes and historic sites that are a part of the tour. If you're interested in having some fun, contact Jen HERE.

Last but not least, celebrate the Vernal Equinox on March 20th, the first day of spring. It's right around the corner.

Cheers,
Terrie Houseman

March Programs

Women's Adventure Film Tour

The Women's Adventure Film Tour will present a thrilling selection of films that span extreme sports, personal journeys, and boundary-pushing storytelling from across the globe. This year's program highlights the

These films represent the spirit of perseverance and the power of women in the outdoors to inspire, entertain, and spark important conversations.

Branch members and guests enjoyed last year's movie. A group plans to go to the Jackson Cinema on Thursday, March 6 at 6:45pm in celebration of International Women's Day. All are welcome to come along to the movies. We hope to see you there!

Note: In addition to Thursday's showing, other dates are Saturday, March 8 at 5:00pm (International Women's Day) and Sunday, March 9 at 3:00pm. View the trailer HERE.

DEI--Diversity, Equity, Inclusion

The National Women's History Alliance (NWHHA) proudly established March as National Women's History Month, ensuring diverse women's voices and contributions are recognized and celebrated. Since 1980, when NWHHA (then the National Women's History Project) successfully advocated for the recognition of Women's History Week, we have been amplifying the stories of all women who shaped history. In 1981, Congress passed a resolution officially establishing the week, with President Jimmy Carter issuing a proclamation. By 1987, NWHHA's continued efforts led Congress to expand the recognition to the entire month of March, creating the National Women's History Month we honor today.

At NWHHA, we believe change begins with education and awareness. By making women's history visible, we empower individuals, challenge biases, and foster a more equitable society. By amplifying all women's voices, we hope to continue to inspire understanding, action, and progress.

As we celebrate Women's History Month 2025 with the theme, "Moving Forward Together! Women Educating & Inspiring Generations," we will continue to advocate, educate, and build a more inclusive future.

Celebrate International Women's Day 2025

The International Women's Day (IWD) 2025 campaign theme is 'Accelerate Action' because at the current rate of progress, it will take until 2158, which is roughly five generations from now, to reach full gender parity, according to data from the World Economic Forum.

With the first IWD gathering in 1911 supported by over a million people, today, IWD belongs to all groups collectively everywhere. IWD is not country, group or organization specific. Simply, March 8 is a global day celebrating the social, economic, cultural, and political achievements of women. This year it marks a call to action for accelerating women's equality because collectively, we can Accelerate Action for gender equality.

Focusing on the need to Accelerate Action emphasizes the importance of taking swift and decisive steps to achieve gender equality. It calls for increased momentum and urgency in addressing the systemic barriers and biases that women face, both in personal and professional spheres. So, together, let's Accelerate Action to speed up the rate of progress worldwide. Learn more HERE.

Tape v. Hurley--a Landmark Case

Mary Tape immigrated to the United States at age 11 and ended up as a servant in a brothel in San Francisco. She was raised at the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society, where she took the name of Mary McGladery. Mary met and married a young Chinese immigrant, Joseph Tape. He established his own prosperous transportation and immigration brokering business.

However, their wealth could not inoculate them from racial discrimination during this time of anti-Chinese exclusion and racial hostility. In 1884, their daughter was denied admission to a local school because she was Chinese. Incensed, Mary wrote an impassioned letter, and the Tapes sued the San Francisco Board of Education. They won the landmark case Tape v. Hurley, which guaranteed Chinese children the right to a public-school education.

After the court decision, the school district built a Chinese Primary School, "suitable for Mongolian children". The Tape case and the state's reaction foreshadowed the "separate but equal" doctrine soon to become law in the 1896 decision Plessy v. Ferguson.

Amanda Nguyen, Civil Rights Activist and Astronaut

I grew up on stories of Vietnamese boat people, including my mother's family, who were guided by stars as they escaped war and famine to reach the lands of freedom. Ever since I was a little girl, I would look up at the stars and dream of becoming an astronaut. When I started college at Harvard, I majored in Astrophysics, conducted research about exoplanets, and interned with NASA. My future was bright until I was assaulted in my senior year.

When I went to the hospital, I found out that my rape kit would be discarded after six months, and all evidence of my attacker would be destroyed. I had a choice. I could either accept the injustice or rewrite the law, so I rewrote it. I sent out a blast e-mail to everyone I knew and asked them to walk with me in penning my own justice into existence in the form of a sexual assault survivor bill of rights. This is how I started RISE in 2014 when I was 23. It is a social change incubator for citizen lawmaking.

Through RISE, I drafted the Sexual Assault Survivors' Rights Act, which was passed unanimously by Congress and signed into law by President Barack Obama on October 7, 2016. This law ensures that survivors have the right to have their rape kit preserved for the duration of the case's statute of limitations, to be informed about the results of forensic exams, and to be notified when a kit will be destroyed. This bill protects nearly 25 million estimated survivors in the US. Through RISE, I want to persuade the U.N. to adopt an international assault survivors' bill of rights, which would protect 1.3 billion survivors worldwide.

For my efforts, I was nominated for the 2019 Nobel Peace Prize, named 2022 TIME Women of the Year, recognized as a Nelson Mandela Changemaker, and one of the Top 100 Global Thinkers by Foreign Policy. In 2024, my childhood dream came true when I made history as the first Vietnamese woman to fly to space aboard Blue Origin's New Shepard Rocket!

We came on boats, and now we're on spaceships. To me, this represents the resiliency of my Asian-American community, and I hope it inspires others to know that they belong in these spaces. I want young women to see this and understand that they deserve to dream big. Even if those dreams are out of this world, we can achieve them!

Equal Pay Day: March 26

Over half a century after pay discrimination became illegal in the United States, a persistent pay gap between men and women continues to hurt our nation's workers and our national economy.

Women working full time in the U.S. are still paid just 84 cents to every dollar earned by men — and the consequences of this gap affect women throughout their lives. The pay gap even follows women into retirement: As a result of lower lifetime earnings, they receive less in Social Security and pensions. In terms of overall retirement income, women have only 70% of what men do.

From National and State

Why AAUW Public Policy Priorities Matter

Nancy Major, Member AAUW California Public Policy Committee

Why do AAUW's Public Policy Priorities matter? They shape the actions that we take as an organization, socially and legally. AAUW's mission is to advance equity for women and girls. Our Public Policy Priorities guide how we encourage active citizenship toward the goal of advancing our mission. Our 2023-25 priorities can be found HERE.

As active participants in society we can help shape the laws and society that govern us, such as healthcare, environmental policies, sex education, curriculum and book banning, housing, childcare, voting rights, immigrants' rights, sexual harassment, domestic violence, racial and LGBTQ discrimination, and Title IX enforcement. We "advocate" or promote our mission through research, education and lobbying for legislation on the international, national, state, and local levels.

History has shown that our advocacy has made a big impact on national, state and local laws. Our Public Policy Priorities also shape our efforts to push forward programs that break through educational and economic barriers for women such as speaker programs, scholarships, oversight of local school boards, leadership and salary training, STEM opportunities for students, and Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) programs.

Why do our Public Policy Priorities matter? They make us the most effective advocates for our collective mission to protect and expand gender equity. At the branch and individual levels, we can take advantage of as many opportunities as possible to operationalize our Public Policy Priorities, and through this work to actively promote AAUW's mission. AAUW as an organization relies on the branches to stay informed and to keep track of where our Public Policy Priorities may fall short, to form coalitions with local allies who have similar missions, and to assign branch members to focus where we can have the most impact.

ACTION: Be a Two Minute Activist

Yes, two minutes can make a difference!

Join AAUW advocates in urging Congress to expand and pass legislation protecting access to education, economic security and civil rights, and more. Sign up to get alerts on when and how to engage, including sending letters to legislators, publication editors and other timely calls to action. All the tools needed to contact members of Congress and state legislators about pressing issues are provided. You will receive occasional email alerts about pending issues. Details at www.aauw.org/act/two-minute-activist/

ACTION: Postcard Protest and Acts of Gratitude

In 2016 a group was formed by Dixie Camardo and Melene Smith to write to elected officials - Federal, State and local about issues of concern. This group has continued and now meets once a month on the third Thursday of the month, at Yorba Wine Tasting, 51 Hanford St., in Sutter Creek. Issues are emailed to all who are interested and postcards are provided.

Why do we write? When we write a postcard it counts as one 'contact.' The message needs to be clear and concise so that it is counted correctly. If we were to send a petition signed by 100 people, it would only count as one contact. If 100 people write about that same issue, it counts as 100 contacts. So we keep writing....it all counts!

Eleanor "Ellie" Smeal, recent Presidential Citizens Medal winner, Afghan women's rights advocate, Ms. publisher, and president and a cofounder of the Feminist Majority Foundation, observes, "Over my 55 years of feminist activism, I have witnessed moments that seemed insurmountable. Yet here we are, stronger, louder, and more determined than ever. But progress is not a straight path. If there is one lesson history teaches us, it is this: small voices, united in purpose, can topple the mightiest of structures. Ordinary people with extraordinary hope have proven that change is possible, even against overwhelming odds."

News about former Tech Trekkers:

Anastasia Karnaze, TT 2011

I have such fond memories of Tech Trek; it was an exciting and immersive experience, and truly the first time I was surrounded by peers who shared my interests. The mentors were engaging and so passionate about their careers. It allowed me to envision what it would be like to be one of them, and looking back now, it's surreal to think I am.

I graduated in 2020 with my B.S. in Biomedical Engineering at the University of California, Irvine, and in 2023 with my M.S. in Biomedical Engineering from San Jose State University. Currently, I work at Axonics, (recently acquired by Boston Scientific) a medical device manufacturing company located in Irvine, CA. We make implantable pulse generators that stimulate the bladder which assists patients with incontinence. As an Operations Engineer, I oversee our in-house production line to ensure smooth and efficient manufacturing of the device.

Emma Cranfill, TT 2017

While I cannot pinpoint a specific favorite memory of Tech Trek, I really enjoyed my core class in circuits, getting to know peers with similar interests, and learning more about myself and my abilities. Tech Trek played a pivotal role in my understanding of STEM and the variety of career paths it encompasses. It also provided an opportunity to challenge myself and still acts as a memorable, crucial moment in my life.

I am in my junior year at Sacramento State and the GE Honors Program, majoring in Environmental Studies. Thank to AAUW once again for providing me the opportunity to attend Tech Trek.
